We need your help

The Promise is Scotland's commitment to infants, children and young people that they will grow up loved, safe and respected, and was the result of the Independent Care Review.

The Promise can't be kept without really listening to children, young people, families and adults with lived experience, and learning about what works, and what needs to change.

This group is for anyone 16+ with lived experience of care, family support, and/or justice. It will be supported and set up by West Dunbartonshire Council, WD HSCP and Action for Children, but will be developed and led by the members of the group. They will be the ones steering the group.

We will look with the group at the fairest way of recognising your time, expertise and commitment and create together a remuneration policy.

We will provide emotional and practical support to being part of the group. If there are barriers to getting involved, please get in touch to discuss and see if there's support we can provide.
